

FAREWELL george

After just 5 1/2 years, Bolero Brasserie's 'George' will be leaving us and heading back to Greece. If you have been to Bolero, you know George. His kind nature and warm welcoming smile at the top of the stairs never goes unnoticed and often sets the standard for the rest of your Bolero experience. He will still be around for most of the month of December so stop by, say farewell and wish him luck in his future journeys. If you haven't been to Bolero, it is a must for lunch, dinner or even a quiet dessert accompanied by a glass of port on the patio over-looking Front Street.

George Athanasiadis, originally from Macedonia, (The Greek Macedonia) has been here at Bolero from the very beginning. The restaurant was formally called Tuscany's. When Jonny Roberts took over he asked George and Nicholas to stay on board. Bolero was born and both are still here with Jonny today.

A few questions for George...

TELL US ABOUT YOUR MOST MEMORABLE TIMES HERE AT BOLERO. The Christmas parties, the ones that companies and people have here. It's always so much fun, everyone is so nice, we have a DJ, sometimes we dance with them. In general when we see people leaving happy after such a good time, it is a great moment.

DO YOU RECOMMEND A DISH?

Foie gras with George's Jam or another favorite is surf and turf with Guinea Chicks. For dessert I recommend Sticky Toffee pudding with Vanilla Ice Cream.

WHAT DO YOU ENJOY MOST ABOUT BERMUDA? The water, swimming, snorkeling, friends, boats, it's such a nice quiet life.

WHAT ARE YOUR PLANS WHEN YOU GO BACK HOME? I am going to be an organic farmer. I used to do this job for 6 months; a friend of mine already has a business. I am going to help him expand the business and we will see from there! You never know, I might be back to Bermuda fast.
